Planning committee accepts BESS site development proposal for Averham

Newark & Sherwood District Council Planning committee accepted the planning development for Averham from Pegasus, after losing the appeal on the Staythorpe BESS site. The decision was close (6—5 in favour) and my personal impression was that it was largely driven by the extra ordinary support of the Planning Officer (for which Pegasus have given their thanks), and the financial implications for the district of losing another appeal.

Community Hub

The Community Hub (ASK Hive) decision, promised for June has not materialised from the Notts County Council team who are unresponsive to requests for updates! This may be due to the forthcoming election, but until we get word we won't know. With the developments above and others in the pipeline it places much greater importance of having our own community space.

The ASK Hive team continue to chip away at the project in anticipation of a positive outcome. These range from selecting the legal format of our organisation for the benefit of the Averham, Staythorpe and Kelham villagers for the long term benefit of the various stakeholders, to planning a repairs and maintenance schedule to get the building and site ready for use and where the money is likely to come from to fund it all. As soon as we are told we shall let everyone know.

Letter of thanks for the Time for a Cuppa

From Dementia UK:

“Hi Tracey,

We want to say a huge thank you to our amazing Time for a Cuppa hosts for making this years’ event so special. We truly appreciate every cuppa poured, cake sliced and minute spent organising and hosting your event.

Because of you, more families like Hannah and Neil, who was diagnosed with young onset dementia aged 41, can access the support of our dementia specialist Admiral Nurses.“

*“Our whole family is living with dementia. I don’t want our daughters to have to live with it – but we do and it’s frustrating and exhausting. There is never a moment where it’s not on my mind, but Admiral Nurse Lizzie is on my side. She isn’t here just to support Neil, but to support me. She helps me deal with dementia in a way that nobody else has.” - Hannah

The event held at Averham Church and organised by Tracey Carlisle back in May raised over £250! Thanks again to all those who gave their support.

WANTED: FLOOD WARDEN VOLUNTEER

Given the exceptional weather conditions experienced recently it is important that our villages are prepared for flooding in the future. Currently the PC, NSDC and Notts CC are looking for volunteers in order to increase flood resilience across the District and County, specifically in Averham and Staythorpe. Should you wish to volunteer you will need to register with Notts. CC. It is a simple form to complete and then attend a short training course which can be done remotely or in person.

This is open to any resident who wishes to volunteer. If you would like to have a preliminary chat please contact the Acting Chair of the Parish Council on:

email: cllrbradey@gmail.com

Alternatively contact the East Midlands Flood Resilience Team:

Local Business Celebrates Another Milestone

We Care Auto Repairs (WCAR) started life in December 2019 with Paul working out of his van offering a mobile car repair service. Having set up a Facebook page and delivered some leaflets he was soon overrun with work, mainly gained through recommendations and advertising in The Plough! The business went from strength to strength and, in June 2022, WCAR moved into premises on Northern Road, Newark meaning that even more services could be offered, for example air conditioning, tyres, and repairs of light commercial vehicles up to 5 tonnes.

Two years on and Paul and his team of four are continuing to help the motorists of Newark by offering an honest and professional service, including collection and delivery where needed. We absolutely couldn't have got where we are today without the continued support and encouragement from our customers, many of whom have become good friends. As many of you know the kettle is always on and we look forward to seeing you again and seeing what the future brings.

The Plough would like to thank Paul and his team for the terrific service they provide to our community. We wish him continued success. Editor

The Longest Yarn

9-27* September, Southwell Minster

Southwell Minster

Cathedral ♦ Gardens ♦ Palace

The Longest Yarn is coming to Southwell Minster in September in a UK-first as part of commemorations marking the 80th anniversary of D-Day.

The Longest Yarn is an 80 meter 3D depiction of that fateful day, 6th June 1944, in wool art.

With 80 displays, each measuring one metre in length, depicting scenes of the world's largest amphibious invasion, The Longest Yarn is something quite unique and not to be missed. The scenes include the build-up to D-Day in England, the horrors on the Landing Beaches and the bloody inland battles.

The installation will be first on display in Carentan, France, in May, before coming to Southwell Minster from 9-27* September

ASK Hive Community Hub

In today's world, the tension between individualism and society is a prominent issue, playing out in various arenas, from political discourse to social interactions. One of the most intriguing and tangible battlegrounds for this debate is the community hub. These hubs, which offer a wide range of services to their communities, embody the intersection of individual needs and collective welfare, making them a perfect microcosm for exploring the balance between individualism and society.

Community hubs are centres that provide an array of services, including educational programs, health services, recreational activities, and social support. They are designed to be accessible to all members of a community, aiming to enhance the overall quality of life. The very existence of these hubs is a testament to the value society places on collective well-being. Yet, they also must navigate and respect the unique needs and rights of individuals within the community.

On one hand, individualism champions the importance of personal freedom, autonomy, and self-expression. It argues that each person should have the right to pursue their own path, make their own choices, and live according to their own values. In the context of a community hub, this means offering services that cater to diverse interests and needs. For instance, a hub might provide job training programs for those seeking career advancement, mental health services for those in need of support, and creative workshops for individuals looking to explore their artistic talents.

However, a focus on individualism alone can lead to fragmentation and a lack of cohesion. If each person is solely concerned with their own needs and desires, the sense of community and mutual responsibility can erode. This is where the role of society, and by extension, the community hub, becomes crucial. Society emphasizes the interconnectedness of individuals and the importance of working together for the common good. In a community hub, this might manifest in programs that encourage volunteering, community gardening projects, or events that celebrate cultural diversity and foster social bonds.

From individual

The challenge for community hubs is to strike a balance between these two ideals. They must ensure that while individual needs are met, the spirit of community and collective responsibility is not lost. This balance can be achieved through inclusive planning and decision-making processes that involve community members. By engaging residents in discussions about what services and programs are needed, hubs can ensure they are addressing individual needs while fostering a sense of ownership and community spirit.

Moreover, community hubs can serve as educational platforms, promoting the idea that individual well-being is often intertwined with community health. Workshops on topics like sustainability, civic engagement, and social justice can empower individuals to see beyond their personal interests and recognize their role in the larger societal context. Through these efforts, community hubs can cultivate a sense of belonging and shared purpose.

The balance between individualism and society within community hubs is not just a philosophical issue; it has practical implications. A hub that leans too heavily towards individualism might struggle to build a cohesive community, while one that focuses too much on collective needs might neglect the unique aspirations of its members. Successful community hubs are those that navigate this balance with sensitivity and inclusiveness, creating spaces where individuals can thrive while contributing to the greater good.

In conclusion, community hubs are vital arenas for exploring and balancing the tension between individualism and society. They are places where personal dreams and communal goals can coexist and complement each other. By embracing both individual needs and collective welfare, community hubs can foster vibrant, resilient communities where everyone has the opportunity to flourish. This delicate balance is not just a goal but a necessity for building strong, supportive communities in an increasingly fragmented world.

INSPIRING WOMEN

June Report

We had a really lively talk from David Newby who has taken on the catering facilities at the Saracens Head in Southwell.

Very little of the talk was about food, but about the amazing history in which the local hostelry is steeped, having some walls dating to the 16th century. It is most famous for it's connection to King Charles 1 and the Civil War and has undergone many changes over the centuries; from coaching inn to a modern day quality hotel. And o f course it wouldn't be a respectable ancient building without several ghosts!!

More about the present day: David has great plans to develop the ground floor not only as a restaurant but a a local community facility for parties and special events using local suppliers and putting the hotel back to a central point for Southwell. With his enthusiasm for the project it cannot fail. We are going to have our next Ladies that Lunch event there so more about the food later.

Summer always is a busy time for outings and we have several things lined up. The Lavender fields of Yorkshire and even a trip to Rome. We are once again enjoying the summer season of Whist and regular Rummikub. Always something happening with the WI!

Why not give us a try in July. Our next monthly meeting is on July 8 th 7pm at the Robin Hood Theatre when we will be having a presentation from Kevin Winter from the Civil War Museum in Newark giving us another dimension of the role of Newark during the Civil War. We are a friendly bunch of lasses from different walks of life able to offer you interests and friendship.

ASK Garden Club Report June 2024

ASK Garden Club – Garden Visit

The Poplars, Hawton

For our second summer outing, a group of ten of us met up in the church car park for a short walk to The Poplars where we were met by our hosts Ian, Michael and their two dogs, Lottie and Spencer. It threatened rain, but thankfully this passed over and as we entered their garden the sun came out.

Michael began by saying they had moved up from London in May 2022 from a house with a very small garden to this 1.2 acre plot that wraps around an early Georgian farmhouse. Both passionate gardeners for over thirty years, they had been looking for somewhere to live with a large garden they could make their own, and this has proved ideal even though Ian said he initially wanted around eight acres!

Like so many of us, they began by maintaining the garden that the previous owners had left, spending hours weeding an enormous island bed and linier border which obscured the open views from the house.

There was also an inappropriately placed large deep pond which the dogs often found themselves in and then being covered in duckweed as a result.

Ian and Michael soon decided these 'adopted features' had to go and their plan to make it their garden began by clearing masses of brambles from under a horse chestnut tree, creating a large open space now only broken up by wildlife beds planted with fruit trees and thousands of spring bulbs. Nearer the house are smaller, more formal island beds planted up with various flowering shrubs, roses, dahlias (cleverly supported by bamboo baskets), alliums and ornamental grasses.

These beds are mulched with bark to help retain moisture, keep the weeds down and steppingstone pathways divide the beds created from terracotta tiles reclaimed from the kitchen subfloor. All this area was cleared, new beds created and planted up by the end of March this year!

We all meandered over to the patio area at the side of the house which is surrounded by timber topped brick columns that enclose the patio which is made up of gravel, paving and planted up with drought resistant plants such as santolina, lavender, rosemary, and nepeta under olive trees in giant resin terracotta pots. These pots are bottomless allowing the roots of the trees to establish themselves in the ground beneath reducing the need for watering.

Further around from the patio Ian and Michael created a formal chill-out area between mature sycamore and horse chestnut trees which includes blue brick edged angular beds, paved area, seating and a fire pit. All of the flowering shrubs and perennials have white flowers, apart from one yellow rose purchased on a whim from B&Q.... "Well it looked to be white on the label". However, their attention to detail is to be admired, they have even arranged the angle of the beds to line up for the best views from all their seating areas including from the dining room table. We returned to the patio area and enjoyed tea/coffee and delicious apple crumble tray cake made especially for us by Michael and Ian for the occasion.

They run baking classes (staghillbakes.co.uk), seems baking is another passion of theirs; I don't think it will be too long before one or two of our group enrol!

You can visit this garden on Sunday 18 th August afternoon (2-5.30) when it will be open as part of the NGS gardens open for charity.

Next Meeting: Sherwood Forest Railway Wednesday 24 th July 3.00pm: Fancy a short steam train ride into Sherwood Forest and a picnic? Please note, at the time of going to press this still has to be confirmed.

Summer is here?

Holidays are approaching and as sit here the sun is shining a gentle breeze and all is right with the world (if only!).

The Plough is not produced in January or August to give the wonderful people that take time to contribute a break for Christmas and their summer break, the next publication will be September. The September issue will be the last one produced totally in-house as the contract on the printing machine comes to an end and at long last Hilary Hunt can have her office back. Many thanks to Hilary for allowing the BIG printer to be housed there. The October issue will be organised by one of our local printers.

CHURCH NEWS

We continue to hold our regular services albeit once a month for the regular church service which is always the last Sunday of the month at 9.30am. Perhaps a little early for some but we do round the event off with coffee and cakes!

'Messy Church' continues to be a favourite with the youngsters . Watch out for the updates on this on the villages WhatsApp site. It again is usually held on the last Sunday of the month around 4pm. Many thanks to Anne for her hard work.

The fund raiser for Dementia UK did really well raising over £250 for the charity. Many thanks to all who supported the event.

We do seem to focus on coffee and cake as we will be holding our next tea and chat event on June 22nd . More on that in the next edition, September.

There's still time to change your mind.

As I write we are well into the General Election campaign and when you read this we will be about to vote. I say we as I hope that all of us who are eligible to vote will do so. It not only is a right but also a privilege. Looking at the turnout in 2019 nearly three quarters of us in this constituency voted, better than the national average, but it would be great for it to be more.

On what will you base your decision: me, us or them? It has felt that over the past 45+ years of my voting career there has been a narrowing of the debate, partly due to our love of the media soundbite. Increasingly it feels like politicians have become sales assistants seeking to sell something that will make life better for 'me' or at least no worse.

Where is the 'us' in the election rhetoric? A recognition that what may be better for us may come at a cost to you and me. In my mind at the moment is the approaching arrival of the notification of my state pension. For me to receive that requires others to pay for it in the same way that during my working life I have been paying towards others' state pension. Also, the 'us' is how we consider where we should place our vote with regards to policies that seek to deal with climate change. For many at the moment in this locality there is a focus on the impact of solar farms but I trust we will vote on the broader issue of all those things that can change the balance for the generations that follow us.

And what about the 'them', those that are different from us. Who do we see as 'them', possibly we should consider them as 'us'. The Church of England has been running "Pray Your Part" which promotes prayer and participation in the campaign. We are encouraged to remember that those offering themselves for public office 'need and deserve our support and prayer' and that we 'rightly expect integrity in those engaged in public life' but that we should expect the same standards of ourselves. We are reminded of the importance of truth, particularly in a world where social media will flag up more of what you like rather than providing a balance of perspectives.

"In the Lord's Prayer, Jesus teaches us to pray each day, 'Your kingdom come, Your will be done, on earth as in heaven'. This simple and profound prayer is our starting point during the days leading up to the General Election – and all the days beyond. May God's will be done in our nation and in God's world."
